Through the lens

Kancheepuram
30th August 2015

How powerful images are. We are inspired by them, we create them, we are a part of them and we can even capture them for posterity! Images say much about ourselves or can speak about us, sometimes even more than a 1000 words can!

We invite you to explore this relationship between the inside and the outside, the seer and the seen. Our setting is the ancient town of Kanchi and two of her temples.

Two experts in their fields will come together to craft this day of exploring how images can reflect your inside and how you in turn can be influenced by images.

Our image interpreter

Satyajit is a much acclaimed photographer based in Chennai. He has been in advertising photography for the past 15 years, especially known for his specialisation in the highly challenging field of Automotive photography. Due to his passion for imaging and deep sense of enquiry, he has been invited on numerous occasions to institutions such as IIM & MICA as a guest speaker. His spontaneous enthusiasm to share and explore has naturally developed into Photo-Walk sessions. Leaving participants with a lingering feeling of connection and empathy with their society and surroundings.

Our image enabler

Pradeep is a well-known Chennai based writer and speaker on pre-colonial Tamil Nadu. His specialisation is on how temple and ancient towns like Kanchipuram evolved akin to other social institutions. He is a leadership development consultant and brings those insights into this as well. He is the author of several articles and books and has recently begun to do regular heritage trips in Tamil Nadu.
